

The Caledonian.

St. Johnsbury, Vt., Thursday, May 28, 1885.

Gen. Grant has been reported better the past few days than for the past two weeks.

An unusual scene was presented in the Central municipal court at Boston last Thursday, when Rev. Dr. A. J. Gordon, pastor of the Clarendon street Baptist church, Rev. H. L. Hastings, publisher of the Christian, a religious weekly, Rev. W. F. Davis and others, were arraigned on charge of disturbing the peace, and violating the city ordinance which says that no person shall deliver a sermon, address or discourse on the common or other public grounds, without a permit from the city government. The arrests were made on account of services held the previous Sunday on the common by the Young Men's Christian Association. Dr. Gordon, Mr. Hastings, Mr. Davis and others, were found guilty and fined $10 each. They appealed and were each held in $100 for trial at the superior court in June, when they propose to fully test the constitutionality of their right to hold such services on the common. The association has planned its summer work, which includes open-air preaching on the common and other places, and will be carried out unless the authorities interfere. It was understood that Wm. Doogee, superintendent of the common, incited the complaints.

Revision of the Old Testament.

After fourteen years of assiduous labor the revised Bible is given to the world. On the inside pages we give some illustrations of changes made in the Old Testament text, but very few will ever know and fewer still appreciate the labor of these fourteen years. Whatever may be the belief as to the necessity or advisability of the revision, the labor of the committee should receive the commendation and thanks of every one.

The authorized version of the Bible was issued in 1611. That in the 270 years that have elapsed since, education and research and discoveries of ancient manuscripts, etc., should have added much to the knowledge of the surroundings and circumstances affecting in some degree the early Scriptures, is not strange. Time will prove, if it has not already been proven, that the action of the learned men of England and America in giving the world a more literal and correct rendering of the original word of God, was done none too soon.

The proposition to revise the Bible originated with English divines, but in both the work upon the New and Old Testament there were associated with them some of the best American scholars. The New Testament revision was given to the public four years ago. The fifteen American scholars who were members of the Old Testament committee were chosen from a locality that admitted of monthly meetings and their names and denominational connection are given below:

Prof. Charles A. Allen, D. D., Princeton, N. J. (Presbyterian).
Rev. T. W. Chambers, D. D., New York (Reformed).
Prof. Thomas J. Conant, D. D., Brooklyn, N. Y. (Baptist).
Prof. George E. Day, D. D., Divinity School of Yale College (Congregationalist).
Prof. John De Witt, D. D., New Brunswick, N. J. (Reformed).
Prof. William Henry Green, D. D., Princeton, N. J. (Presbyterian).
Prof. George Eliot, N. Hare, D. D., Philadelphia (Episcopalian).
Prof. Charles P. Krauth, D. D., University of Pennsylvania (Lutheran).
Prof. Charles M. Mead, Ph. D., Andover, Mass. (Congregationalist).
Prof. Howard Osgood, D. D., Rochester, N. Y. (Baptist).
Prof. Joseph Packard, D. D., Alexandria, Va. (Episcopalian).
Prof. Calvin E. Stowe, D. D., Hartford, Conn. (Congregationalist).
Prof. James Strong, S. T. D., Madison, N. J. (Methodist).
Prof. Taylor Lewis, LL. D., Union College, Schenectady, N. Y. (Presbyterian).
Prof. C. V. A. Van Dyck, D. D., Beirut, Syria (advisory member on questions of Arabic).

Prof. Lewis died in 1877, Dr. Krauth died in 1883, Dr. Stowe was obliged to resign on account of impaired health. As intimated as above the work of the revision required the highest scholarship, the most diligent research and the adaptation to this special matter of all the helps derived from personal study of the Holy Land and the recent explorations in Assyria and Egypt. Whatever may be the judgment rendered on their work, the committee must have the credit of long, faithful and patient service, and that too without fee or hope of reward.

Note and Comment.
The article on England and Russia, written for The Caledonian and printed on the second page of this paper, is a remarkably clear and readable discussion of the present relations of these two great powers, now regarded with so much interest by the civilized world.

Some of the sad phases of unhappy married life were developed in the divorce court held in Boston last week. The anguish which has wrung the heart of the wife whom E. L. Andrews heartlessly deserted can be faintly imagined from a letter presented in evidence which contained these sentences:

I love you still, and would rather spend my days with you than any other living man, even though he had millions. I know that, although I have made many mistakes, I love you and would give the world to have you all to myself again. I wish—God knows that it is the dearest desire of my heart—that you will consider your children and live with your family again, and it will be the whole object of my life to make you happy. I cannot think for a moment that you have entirely forgotten the mother of your children.

Frederick T. Frelinghuysen, secretary of state during President Arthur's administration, died at his home in Newark, N. J., last week Wednesday after a protracted illness, aged 67 years, leaving behind him an honorable record of able service in the senate and the cabinet. He was one of the principle advocates of President Johnson's impeachment, and was a member of the electoral commission which seated President Hayes in 1877. Politically he was a republican of the "stalwart" type. He was an able lawyer, and a man of unquestioned integrity of purpose and action. Mr. Frelinghuysen was nominated by President Grant as minister to England and unanimously confirmed, but declined the honor, preferring to remain in the senate.

The Boston and Albany railroad was indicted at Springfield, Mass., last Thursday, for running Sunday trains.

The Englishman's boast that the sun never sets on the Queen's dominions is familiar. The citizen of the United States is entitled to make the same claim for his country. San Francisco, generally supposed to be the western gate of the United States, is really midway of our dominion; the most distant Aleutian island, off our Alaskan possessions, being as far west of San Francisco as Eastport, Maine, is east. Hence, says a writer on the subject, "the sun never sets in our country. When the sun is giving its good-night kiss to our west-most isle on the confines of Behring's sea, it is also flooding the fields and forests of Maine with its morning light."

Important to married men: Justice Miller of the supreme court has decided that the proper person to whom to deliver a telegraph dispatch to a business man, when he is out of town, is to his wife at home. The case came up in Des Moines, Ia. Walker Given was offered a well-paid editorial position by telegraph. He was not in the city, the dispatch was left with his wife, and was not forwarded until the place had been filled. The delay was caused because Mrs. Given didn't know her husband's whereabouts, although the clerks at his office did. In his wrath Given sued the telegraph company for damages, but Justice Miller holds that the delivery was right, and says the moral is that "men should be on very confidential terms with their wives," and a very sound moral it is.

The strange story is current that the family of the late Secretary Frelinghuysen make no secret of the fact that his first serious illness was due to acoutite that in some unaccountable way was bottled with the mineral water he used; and Dr. Lincoln of Washington says that there was enough left in the bottle to kill four men.

Victor Hugo, the most notable man in France, the great poet, dramatist, novelist and apostle of freedom, died last Friday at the ripe age of 83 years. Among all his works "Les Misérables" stands forth as the greatest, as it is also one of the half-dozen greatest novels in the world. He left a request that his body should be conveyed to the grave in a "pauper hearse," without any religious rites. A fund has been started for a national monument to the dead poet.

"Thief" isn't a pretty sounding word, but it is the right name for a man who takes a newspaper and refuses to pay for it. A New York paper has begun suit against several delinquent subscribers under the United States postal laws, which say: "The taking of a newspaper and refusal to pay for the same renders a person liable to criminal prosecution as a thief, and the person guilty of the same can be punished as if he had stolen goods to the amount of subscription."

Poundmaker, Riel's ally, has surrendered, virtually ending the Riel rebellion. The Dominion has spent about $500,000 and 250 men have been killed on both sides and nearly 400 wounded.

The cases of Mackin and Gallagher, the men who changed the ballots in the box in a Chicago ward at the last presidential election, will go to the United States supreme court.

Blind for 46 years, and yet one of the happiest of men! So reads an obituary notice in the Passumpsic items in this paper. Perhaps happiness depends less upon circumstances than most of us think.

Mr. Vilas seems to have the notion in his head that there is a democratic and republican way of handling the mails. Would the manager of an express company be likely to adopt that theory?—[Boston Herald.]

General News.

CINCINNATI FIRE.—SEVENTEEN KILLED.
Dense clouds of smoke were discovered issuing from the rear windows of the building No. 19 on West 6th street, Cincinnati, about 1:30 o'clock Thursday afternoon. The alarm brought the engines almost immediately and it was not fifteen minutes before the fire was so much under control that the engineer was able to reach the fifth or top floor. It was at first thought that only five women who jumped from a fifth story window were killed; but the engineer found ten dead bodies lying with hands to their faces, and faces blackened and distorted in death. One man, after saving the lives of two women by letting down a rope from the roof, was himself killed by the burning of the same before he reached the ground. The fire was caused by the explosion of a gasoline stove on the second floor. The flames entered the elevator shaft, which is next to the stairway, and all chance of escape was then cut off. The killed are mostly employees of the dye works, which occupied a portion of the building.

A Portland and Ogdensburg passenger train ran off the track about a mile east of Bethlehem Junction last week. The engine and tender plunged down a 20-foot embankment into the Ammonoosuc river and were made a total wreck. The engineer and fireman went into the river with the engine, but crawled out, suffering only a few bruises. No others were injured. The cause of the accident is unknown.

Rev. Henry Ward Beecher began a series of sermons on "Evolution" at Plymouth church, Brooklyn, Sunday.

Concord.

The wife of Luther Bonett died Tuesday night after an illness of but twenty-four hours. The doctor pronounced the cause of her death to be cholera.

McIndoes Falls.

Rev. Mr. Cook's Memorial sermon here on Sunday last was listened to with much interest. We are glad to note that there seems to be quite a general desire that it should be published.

Decoration day oration will be given here in the church by Rev. Mr. Ranslow after decoration of the graves of deceased comrades by the Grand Army.

The Good Templars netted $11 by their entertainment the other evening. A very pleasant evening was spent by the parents and friends of Miss Dewey's music scholars at her home on the 20th. The recital showed evident care and taste both on the part of the students and scholars. After refreshments the exercises were brought to a close by remarks of congratulation and encouragement by Rev. Mr. Cook and Dr. Clark.

Mrs. Ramsdell is now on the gain.

Mr. Grant, the clerk at the boarding house, says he wants no more of Job's comforters.

McLaughlin, agent for Singer sewing machine, was in town a day or two ago. He reports business lively.

Kendrick has been loading his portable mill last week, having just finished his job at Mr. Finley's. He next goes to Lancaster.

Monroe, N. H.

The hall was filled to overflowing on Sunday afternoon to hear the memorial sermon by Rev. Mr. Cook. Barnett, North Monroe and McIndoes were all well represented by members of the G. A. R.

Mr. King, who has been preaching at North Monroe for a few weeks past, has been engaged for a year. Mr. King is a young man of more than ordinary promise.

A Sabbath-school with 60 scholars has been organized.

Business is lively these days at Monroe mills and McFarland says he intends it shall be more so before very long.

Passumpsic.

John Barker, whose funeral services were held in this place in the Passumpsic church on Thursday, May 21st, was born in the year 1800 and consequently was 85 years of age. He united with the Baptist church here in 1815, at the age of 15 years, which was very soon after the church was organized. Silas Davidson, at that time the pastor of the church, lived on a farm in Waterford, some five miles from here, carrying on his farm during the week and preaching Sundays. Mr. Barker for forty-six years has been totally blind, and yet all who knew him will testify that he was one of the happiest men on earth. With his past life so very full and complete, and his hope indeed "like an anchor to the soul, both sure and steadfast." At the time of the formation of the Railroad street Baptist church in St. Johnsbury, he took a letter from this church and united with that, and has retained his membership there since. Rev. Mr. Sandford preached the funeral discourse, Rev. Mr. Read assisting.

The writer has several times within the past week or two heard this remark, "Passumpsic never looked as well as now," and it would seem that the remark was justified by the facts. Within the past five or six years nearly all the central part of the village has been built new or thoroughly repaired. Among the new buildings erected are the mills of E. T. & H. K. Ide and those of Geo. C. Goodrich. Houses of S. K. Armstrong, F. W. Mason, Geo. F. Cushman, R. C. Morse, J. A. Dexter and E. E. Woods, and notable improvements have been made in the village. The new school-house is a pretty good record and an evidence of taste and prosperity.

Readers in this vicinity will notice the new and strange device of E. E. Woods in advertising columns.

There will be appropriate services held at the cemetery on Decoration day at 10 o'clock, consisting of short addresses by Rev. E. T. Sandford and Rev. S. A. Read, music, and a poem by Chas. H. Woods. It is hoped that there will be a general turning out on that occasion and that the people in this vicinity shall by their presence show their respect for the memory of those who gave their lives for their country.

Peacham.

Mrs. Hunt returned from Boston last Monday with a full line of fancy goods and millinery in the latest desirable styles.

Ball is the rage. One nine has been organized and a second is in process of construction.

The farmers generally have got well along with their spring work.

Work on the Congregational church has begun in earnest; the roof on the east side is covered with iron and the freestone is proceeding blithely under the direction of Mr. Marion, who seems to understand his business.

Mrs. P. F. Ferguson is very sick with rheumatic fever.

M. S. Hidden is sick with pneumonia.

Mrs. Truman and Miss Hannah Martin have returned from a Boston trip since our last issue.

Herbert Devere died on Thursday of Bright's disease.

The lumber for the new school-house is getting onto the ground now and work will probably be begun soon.

Mrs. Duncan Harvey, with her daughter Lou and Miss Ada Rowe, left Tuesday for the West.

Wells River.

The convention of last week was well attended by the young people and the concert given Thursday evening was very good. Mr. Ketum was invited to return next July and conduct another one. A choral union has been organized.

Ex-Governor Roswell C. Farnham of Bradford is to deliver the address at Wells River Memorial day.

Mrs. Lena Jenkins from Iowa is spending a few days with her aunt, Mrs. S. Page.

Mr. Henry Martin, a former resident of Newbury, has returned from Iowa for a visit after twenty-five years of absence. The old place which he calls seems to have worn upon him no more than that in more favored portions does upon the people living in them.

Mrs. R. Long, who was so badly hoaxed, was at last accounts doing well.

Vermont News.

SENATOR EDMUNDS GOING TO ENGLAND.
Senator Edmunds has been suddenly and unexpectedly summoned to England, to testify as an expert on some points of American law, in a case pending before the British House of Lords. He has accordingly made a corresponding sudden change in his plans for the summer, and expects to sail for England next Saturday. Mrs. Edmunds and Miss Mary Edmunds will accompany him; and after performing the special duty which calls him abroad, the Senator with his family will take a tour in England, returning home about the middle of August.

DECISION BY THE STATE LIBRARY COMMITTEE.

The state library committee met at Montpelier Tuesday and remained in session until two o'clock the next morning. A decision was reached, however, and the library will have a wing added to the west part of the capital on the back side. This is according to the plan prepared by Mr. Richards of Boston, which was favored by Gov. Pingree, Lieut-Gov. Ormsbee and ex-Gov. Proctor, who the rest of the committee wanted a separate building put down toward the street. The discussion, besides being long, was quite earnest, as each side was fixed in its opinion.

Bristol is to have a bank.

A horse belonging to Edward Platon of Pittsfield began bleeding at the nose while working in the field recently, and finally gave some snorts and threw a live mouse from the nostril. The mouse was as lively as ever and Mr. Platon had some trouble in catching it.

The doctors incline to think that a severe case of scarlet fever at Rutland was caused or aided by the bad sanitary condition which existed for a time in the high school house.

Mrs. M. J. Martin, postmistress of Burlington, for the past sixteen years, is credited with sending the second best reports, in point of penmanship and accuracy, to with re-devised by the department at Washington.

The ten year old son of Leslie Brown of Vergennes attempted to catch a ride on a buckboard wagon recently, when his foot caught in one of the wheels and his life was twice entirely around the axle-tree. His outcry caused the horse to spring forward, and his body was carried around the axle-tree and thrown nearly in front of the wagon and taken home with one bone of his fractured leg protruding. The limb was broken in three places, but it is hoped it may be saved.

Central Vermont railroad stations are to be supplied with hand grenade fire extinguishers.

Hilas Dickey, brother of Col. A. M. Dickey of Bradford, died recently at Manchester, N. H. He went to that city when it was in its infancy, and the bridge across the lake at North Hero, many of the finest buildings in that city were erected by him.

Sheldon Abbott, who died in Barton, May 14, aged 86, was the first white native of the town, and had lived there 82 years of his life. He lived in the industry, engaging in his early years in teaming between Boston and northern Vermont. He four times married, the last time at the age of 86, and leaves several children.

Barnum's great moral show will appear in Burlington on Wednesday, the 31st of June.

The whey from a number of cheese factories around Burlington has been sold for the season to be made into sugar of milk. The price is $1 for the season for each cow represented.

Charles A. Clark, master of bridges on the Central Vermont railroad, has been appointed to represent the interest of the state in the building of the bridge across the lake at North Hero, on which work is to be begun soon. The bridge will be completed in about two years.

Ex-Lieut. Gov. Underwood of Burlington has been taken to the insane asylum in Westboro. His insanity is of a mild form.

Senator and Mrs. Morrill will return to Vermont about June 1.

Charles Perkins has been appointed postmaster at Lower Cabot, in place of Nathaniel Perry, resigned.

George W. Baker of Bradford and the Bradford paper manufacturing company have failed with liabilities of nearly $20,000 and assets nominally $16,000. Boston and Fitchburg parties are the heaviest creditors.

These men have been elected directors of the Vermont Central and Consolidated roads: J. Gregory Smith, James K. Langdon, Joseph Hucks, B. P. Cheney, Ezra H. Baker, W. H. Bingham and Edward C. Smith.

M. J. Coughlin of Winoski was arrested on the 20th on a charge of libel, the suit being brought by D. J. Pliska, who claims that Mr. Coughlin is the author of the "Letter from Winoski" published in last week's Argus and Herald. Damages are placed at $200. Coughlin was not taken to jail, but furnished bonds in the sum of $200 to appear for trial.

The St. Albans listers have completed the list for 1885. It amounts to $80,135.73, which is $1,216.85 less than the list of 1884. The number of polls this year is 1486, 12 less than last year.

In Vermont and New Hampshire forty-eight towns have the same names, viz.: Albany, Andover, Bennington, Berlin, Bradford, Bristol, Brookfield, Brookline, Canaan, Charleston, (spelled Charlestown in N. H.), Chester, Concord, Danville, Dover, Franklin, Goshen, Grafton, Groton, Hancock, Londonderry, Manchester, Marlboro, (Marlborough in N. H.), Middletown, (Middletown in N. H.), Milton, Newbury, Newport, Northfield, Orange, Pittsfield, Plainfield, Plymouth, Randolph, Richmond, Rochester, Roxbury, Salisbury, Sharon, Shelburne, Springfield, Strafford, Sutton, Troy, Warren, Waterville, Windham, Windsor and Woodstock. In the United States there are thirty Washingtons and thirteen Grants.

Public Opinion.

FAIRLY WON.

The senatorship from Illinois is John Logan's, and it was fairly won. His campaign has contrasted favorably with that of the democrats from the first, and the capture of the one vote needed by the republicans to elect the democratic district, gave him the coveted honor. General Logan is not an ideal senator in many ways, but he is an honest man and a brave one, and is better fitted to lead the Senate than are many of the money-bags that occupy them.—[Boston Herald.]

A RARE VIRTUE.

President Cleveland sticks to the truth as he sees it, and this is a very much rarer and even more difficult virtue for men in high political place than it ought to be.—[N. Y. Sun.]

TURN THE RASCALS OUT.

The summer has come. Do not keep little children penned up indoors, fearing fresh air will give them colds or the sunshine spoil their complexions. Turn the rascals out.—[Cincinnati Commercial Gazette.]

A GREAT BLUNDER.

The confidential circular of Postmaster General Vilas is so gross a blunder, both as a matter of policy and principle, that President Cleveland can do no less than sit down on it. The plan of Mr. Vilas is a reversion to the boldest and most brutal expression of the "spoils system." It makes the party congressman the party almoner. It is a ringing blow to the ear to the young gens of civil service reform. It is in direct violation and contempt of the deliberate pledges of the president.—[Rutland Herald.]

PRESIDENTIAL CANDIDATE IN 1888.

Mr. Logan's re-election to the Senate is the greatest triumph of his life. It will be pretty sure to bring him prominently forward as a Presidential candidate for the campaign of 1888.—[Burlington Free Press.]

STILL OFF THEIR BASE.

The talk about making John A. Logan the republican candidate for president in 1888 affords curious and amusing illustration of the "rattled" condition of the republican party. It recovers slowly from the demoralizing alliance with Blaine, and does not yet lift high its standard of requirement, and seek by the excellence of its aims for the support that must be secured if victory is to be deserved and commanded. The talk about Logan is an incident rather than evidence of a purpose to fight the next campaign on the old lines. The republican party may be expected to pull itself together in time, and when it does the rank and file will look for leadership to the words of John D. Long rather than heed those of Senator Evans, and the Fillies and Hattons and Tabors who are shooting Republicanism.

A BAD ACCIDENT.

Attorney-General Garland has dug down to the fossiliferous stratum and unearthed a school or college mate of his, Zachariah Montgomery of California, who is made assistant attorney-general for the interior department in place of Judge J. K. McCann of Pennsylvania. This appointment ought to be revoked upon the same ground that Secretary Manning gave for the shaking off of Senator Blackburn's brother, who was named for internal revenue collector in Kentucky, "the man is a bloody fool."—[Springfield Republican.]

TO BE THOUGHT OF.

This administration has already corrected several mistakes. It has revoked the appointment of one man because it was shown that he was once in jail for a misdemeanor, of another because he had proven himself a "bloody fool," and of another because it had turned out that he was intemperate and had shamefully abused his wife. All grades of rascals have been appointed to office under republican administrations but if the appointment of a single one of them was ever recalled we never heard of it.—[Boston Post.]

Thirteen of the Fall River mills will shut down this week.

Last fall, in an accident on the Indiana, Bloomington & Western railroad, William C. Whitehead was injured so badly that he has not since been able to leave his bed, and his death is only a matter of a short time. In a suit to recover damages, the jury at Indianapolis Saturday awarded him $17,500.

The customs officials at Montreal have made a seizure of $80,000 worth of patent medicine, imported and entered, it is alleged, under value at the place of shipment, by J. C. Ayer & Co. of Lowell, Mass.

A jury at Erie, Pa., awarded L. Rosenzweig $48,700 damages for being ejected from a Lake Shore passenger train. The train was a limited express and the conductor refused to accept a regular ticket or money from Rosenzweig, who was a passenger from Cleveland to Erie. Mr. Rosenzweig fell in a pile of stone and perished. Was the result. He sued for $100,000.

Jefferson Davis says that the recent reports of his illness were exaggerated, and that he was enjoying exceedingly good health, with the exception of a slight attack of rheumatism in his ankle.
